Dear Mr. Scott:

This is in respnse to your letter of January 23, 1980.

Please be advised that the Coinage Act of 1965 removed the silver content from the dimes and quarters. At the same time the silver content in the half dollar was reduced to 40%. The 1969 dollar still contained 40% silver. As of December 31, 1979, coinage legislation removed all silver from the circulating dollar.

We are enclosing an information sheet on "Percentage Composition of Metallic Elements Present in Modern United States Coins," which you may find helpful.

Dear Mrs. Lamb:

This is in response to your letter of January 23, 1980.

Please be advised that orders for the 1979 Uncirculated Coin Sets have been closed by the Bureau of the Mint in San Francisco. However, they expect to accept 1980 Uncirculated Coin Set orders in September of this year. This set included the Susan B. Anthony dollar. The cost of these sets will be announced later. We are enclosing an information sheet on coin sets which you may find helpful.

If you wish to have your name placed on the Bureau of the Mint's mailing list for 1980 Uncirculated Coin Sets, please complete the enclosed form. Once you have ordered a coin set from San Francisco, please be assured that you will automatically receive order cards for all future Mint offerings.

Proof and uncirculated coins manufactured in prior years are not available at the Mint. Back issues are usually obtainable from dealers or collectors, at prices determined by them. The Mint does not recommend dealers or collectors to whom inquiry could be made, for this information. Please be advised that the Denver Mint began its operation in 1906. Our primary function of the Bureau of the Mint is to manufacture sufficient coinage to serve the needs of the Nation. We ship all of our coins to the Federal Reserve Banks, who in turn, make distribution to local banks.

Other services include: (1) Conducting tours at the Denver Mint which are extremely educational in that the general public learns how coins are actually minted; (2) Responding to both telephone and letter inquiries pertaining to questions regarding coinage processes, coinage history, government employment, both career and political; and, (3) Selling coins and medals to those interested collectors.

The Denver Mint Sale Room sells the Denver Mint souvenir sets which consist of the half-dollar, quarter, dime, nickel, cent and the commemorative medals of the Denver Mint. These sets are sold over-the-counter only at Mint outlets in Denver, Philadelphia, San Francisco, and Washington, D.C.

We are also enclosing a brochure with order form on "Medals of the United States Mint". An order form for the John Wayne medal is also included.

If you wish to have your name placed on the Bureau of the Mint's mailing list for coin sets and special Mint offerings, please complete the enclosed form. You will automatically receive order cards for all future Mint offerings; coin sets, coins, and medals if your name is included on the San Francisco mailing list. We are enclosing information sheets on coins and coin sets.

The enclosed brochure, "How To Make A Penny," which depicts the coinage process contains some illustrations which you may find helpful. The excerpt from "Facts About United States Money," also relates to coinage operations.

The enclosure, "The Early Days," gives some background of the Denver Mint. The enclosed brochures on the Susan B. Anthony dollar contains facts regarding the coin.

If you ever visit the Denver area, we would be happy to have you visit the Mint. Enclosed is an information sheet regarding our tours.

Mr. Tom Valdez
President, IMAGE
13263 West Utah Circle

Dear Sir:

As a follow-up of your conversation with Mr. Bob Martin on January 14, 1980, I submit the following information. As of December 31, 1979 the workforce at the Denver Mint constituted 34% Hispanics. I am sure you will agree this is a good representation of the area available Hispanic workforce population. The Mint is primarily a manufacturing installation; 73% of the workforce are wage grade positions.

In a meeting with the former president of IMAGE, we discussed the under-representation of minorities and women in general schedule positions GS-9 and above, and asked his assistance in finding qualified applicants for openings at this level. As vacancies occur, we send out announcements to your organization and other Hispanic groups, including Vacancy Outreach Service.

Since that meeting, we have made progress. We have promoted one Hispanic to Safety Manager, GS-11; one Hispanic to Public Services Staff Supervisor; GS-7/9; one Black to Employee Development Specialist, GS-7/9/11; one female to Position Classification Specialist, GS-9/11; and hired a female Staffing Specialist, GS-11. We are limited as to what we can do by the number of and relative low turnover in positions above the GS-9 level. Unfortunately, we do not receive applications from qualified minority applicants for the positions we have available. We currently have a vacancy for Labor Management Relations Specialist, GS-11 (open until February 15, 1980). If you know of a qualified candidate, please have him/her submit an application to the personnel office.

We welcome you to view our operation at the Denver Mint. You may call Mr. Martin at 837-3658 for an appointment at your convenience.

Sincerely,

Evelyn T. Davidson

Cactus Wren School
9650 N. 39th Ave.

Dear Ms. Bergdolt:

This is in response to your letter of January 14, 1980.

Coins are made out of different kinds of metal. Please refer to enclosed information sheet. We are enclosing "How To Make A Penny," which depicts the manufacturing process. Included is an excerpt from "Facts About United States Money," which also relates to coinage operations, and "The Early Days," which gives some historical background of the Denver Mint. Also enclosed are fact sheets on the Susan B. Anthony dollar, which you may find interesting.

The primary function of the Bureau of the Mint is to produce sufficient coinage to meet the demands of the Nation. At the present time, the Denver Mint is minting coins from the cent through the dollar. The issuance of paper currency is under the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, Department of the Treasury, Washington, D.C. 20226.

The story of American money began with the early settlers in New England who carried on their fur trade with the Indians through the use of wampum. In those days, animal skins, tobacco, and wampum were readily exchanged for other commodities. Prior to the use of United States money, English shillings and Spanish doubloons were in circulation. The first coins of the United States were authorized in an Act of April 2, 1792. Many changes in the laws governing coinage have taken place since the original act. It takes an Act of Congress to approve the change in coin design, the metallic content of the coin and the denomination.

As to changes in coins, included is an excerpt from "A Guide Book of United States Coins," by R. S. Yeoman. This book may be purchased from a bookstore or a local coin dealer, who may be located through the yellow pages of the telephone directory.

Relative to famous people associated with coins, please refer to the enclosed excerpt from "Facts About United States Money."

Dear Mr. Head:

This is in response to your letter of January 28, 1980.

Please be advised that the Bureau of the Mint does not sell individual coins or rolls of coin to the public. The Mint ships all of its coin production to the Federal Reserve Banks and Branches. They, in turn, make distribution to commercial banks. If your local bank does not have the coins desired, you might suggest that they contact the Federal Reserve Bank that services the bank. It is suggested that you might wish to contact a local coin dealer, who might be located through the yellow pages of the telephone directory. We are enclosing an information sheet on coins which you might find helpful.

Proof and uncirculated coins manufactured in prior years are not available at the Mint. Back issues are usually obtainable from dealers or collectors, at prices determined by them. The Mint does not recommend dealers or collectors to who inquiry could be made for this information. It is suggested that you consult the yellow pages of your telephone directory for the names of dealers or coin clubs in your area.

Sincerely,

Miss Vickie Bowen
1116 Peach
Dalhart, TX 79022

Dear Miss Bowen:

This will acknowledge your letter received February 4, 1980.

Please be advised that the Denver Mint began its operations in 1906. Our primary function of the Bureau of the Mint is to manufacture sufficient coinage to serve the needs of the Nation. We ship all of our coins to the Federal Reserve Banks, who in turn, distribute them to the local banks.

Other services include: (1) Conducting tours at the Denver Mint which are extremely educational in that the general public learns how coins are actually minted; (2) Responding to both telephone and letter inquiries pertaining to questions regarding coinage processes, coinage history; and, (3) Selling certain coins and medals over-the-counter to visitors.

The Denver Mint Sales Room sells the Denver Mint souvenir sets which consist of the half-dollar, quarter dollar, dime, nickel, cent, and the commemorative medals. These sets are sold over-the-counter only at Mint outlets in Denver, Philadelphia, San Francisco, and Washington, D. C.

We are enclosing a brochure with order form on "Medals of the United States Mint." An order form for the John Wayne Medal is also included.

If you wish to be placed on the Bureau of the Mint's mailing list for coin sets and special Mint offerings, please complete the enclosed form. You will automatically receive order cards for all future coin sets, and medals offered by the Mint if your name is included on the San Francisco mailing list. We are enclosing information sheets on coins and coin sets.

The enclosed brochure, "How To Make A Penny," which depicts the coinage process, contains some illustrations which you may find helpful. The excerpts from "Facts About United States Money," also relates to coinage operations.

The enclosure, "The Early Days," gives some background of the Denver Mint and other facts which you desired. The enclosed brochures on the Susan B. Anthony dollar contains facts regarding the coin.

As to the destruction of old coins, they are melted down and processed. Mutilated or old coins are forwarded to the United States Assay Office, 32 Old Slip, New York, New York 10005, where they are destroyed. This is the only office which provides this service.

Paper currency is destroyed by the Federal Reserve Banks.

If you ever visit the Denver area, we would be happy to have you visit the Mint. Enclosed is an information sheet regarding our tours.

Sincerely,

Evelyn T. Davidson

Dear Mr. Hackett:

This is in response to your letter of February 2, 1980 and your check for $60.00.

Please be advised that bags of pennies are no longer available for sale at the Denver Mint. The Bureau of the Mint sold miniature penny bags in 1972 and 1973, but has no plans to resume this program.

We are returning your check for $60.00.

Miss Anita Wheeler
West Lebanon
New York, NY 12195

Dear Ms. Wheeler:

This will acknowledge your inquiry of February 4, 1980.

Please be advised that the Denver Mint began its operations in 1906. Our primary function of the Bureau of the Mint is to manufacture sufficient coinage to serve the needs of the Nation. We ship all of our coins to the Federal Reserve Banks, who in turn, distribute them to the local banks.

Other services include: (1) Conducting tours of the Denver Mint which are extremely educational in that the general public learns how coins are actually minted; (2) Responding to both telephone and letter inquiries pertaining to questions regarding coinage processes, coinage history; and, (3) Selling certain coins and medals over-the-counter to visitors.

The Denver Mint Sales Room sells the Denver Mint souvenir sets which consist of the half-dollar, quarter dollar, dime, nickel, cent, and the commemorative medals. These sets are sold over-the-counter only at Mint outlets in Denver, Philadelphia, San Francisco, and Washington, D.C.

We are enclosing a brochure with order form on "Medals of the United States Mint." An order form for the John Wayne Medal is also included.

If you wish to be placed on the Bureau of the Mint's mailing list for coin sets and special Mint offerings, please complete the enclosed form. You will automatically receive order cards for all future Mint sets, and medals offered by the Mint if your name is included on the San Francisco mailing list. We are enclosing information sheets on coins and coin sets.

The enclosed brochure, "How To Make A Penny," which depicts the coinage process, contains some illustrations which you may find helpful. The excerpt from "Facts About United States Money," also relates to the coinage process.

The enclosure, "The Early Days," gives some background of the Denver Mint and other facts which you desired. The enclosed brochures on the Susan B. Anthony dollar contains facts regarding the coin.

If you ever visit the Denver area, we would be happy to have you visit the Mint. Enclosed in an information sheet regarding our tours.

Sincerely,

Evelyn T. Davidson

Dear Mr. Way:

This is in response to your letter of February 8, 1980.

This is to advise that mint bags with coins are no longer available. The Bureau of the Mint sold miniature penny bags in 1971 and 1973. The Mint has no plans to resume this program.

As the Denver Mint accepts no mail orders, any further numismatic inquiries should be directed to the Bureau of the Mint, 55 Mint Street, San Francisco CA 94175.

Mr. David Lee Fowers
2590 Buchanan
Ogden UT 84401

Dear Mr. Fowers:

This is in response to your letter of January 28, 1980.

Please be advised that the Denver Mint is producing the 1980 half dollars and they are being distributed to various Federal Reserve Banks.

The Bureau of the Mint does not sell individual coins or rolls of coin to the public. The Mint ships all of its coin production to the Federal Reserve Banks and Branches. They, in turn, make distribution to commercial banks. If your local bank does not have the coins desired, you might suggest that they contact the Federal Reserve Bank that services the bank. You might wish to contact a local coin dealer, who might be located through the yellow pages of the telephone directory.

Relative to coin collecting, you might be interested in purchasing 1980 Proof and Uncirculated Coin Sets. The Bureau of the Mint in San Francisco expects to accept 1980 Proof Set orders in April of this year and 1980 Uncirculated Coin Set orders in September of this year. The cost of these sets will be announced later.

If you wish to have your name placed on the Bureau of the Mint's mailing list for 1980 Proof and Uncirculated Coin Sets, please complete the enclosed form. Once you have ordered a coin set from San Francisco, please be assured that you will automatically receive order cards for all future Mint offerings.

We are enclosing information sheets on coins and coin sets, which you might find helpful.

The two main Mints are the Philadelphia and Denver Mints with headquarters in Washington D.C. The Assay office and Old Mint is located in San Francisco and the other Assay office in New York. The two bullion depositories are located in West Point, New York and Fort Knox, Kentucky. Please refer to the enclosed "Mint Story."

The above mentioned installations maintain large security staffs. The Denver Mint is patrolled by guards twenty-four hours a day and uses the most modern security devices. We are enclosing "The Early Days," which gives some background of the Denver Mint and "How To Make A Penny," which depicts the coinage process. The excerpt from "Facts About United States Money," contains information which you may find helpful.

Please be advised that the Denver Mint began its operations in 1906. Our primary function of the Bureau of the Mint is to manufacture sufficient coinage to serve the needs of the Nation. We ship all of our coins to the Federal Reserve Banks, who in turn, distribute them to the local banks.

Other services include: (1) Conducting tours at the Denver Mint which are extremely educational in that the general public learns how coins are actually minted; (2) Responding to both telephone and letter inquiries pertaining to questions regarding coinage processes and coinage history; and, (3) Selling certain coins and medals over the counter to visitors.

The Denver Mint Sales Room sells the Denver Mint souvenir sets which consist of the half-dollar, quarter dollar, dime, nickel, cent, and the commemorative medals. These sets are sold over-the-counter only at Mint outlets in Denver, Philadelphia, San Francisco, and Washington D.C.

We are also enclosing a brochure with order form on "Medals of the United States Mint." An order form for the John Wayne Medal is also included.

The enclosed brochures contain facts regarding the coin. Also enclosed is a B. Anthony dollar contains gold. For further information on gold, please see information sheet on of the Treasury, Public Affairs Office, Room 2325, Department Building, Washington, D. C. 20220.

If you wish to be placed on the Bureau of the Mint's mailing list for coin sets and special Mint offerings, please complete the enclosed form. You will automatically receive order cards for all future coin sets and medals offered by the Mint if your name is included on the San Francisco mailing list. We are enclosing information sheets on coins and coin sets.

If you ever visit the Denver area, we would be happy to have you tour the Mint. Information regarding tours is included.

Sincerely,

Mr. Dennis C. Hobson
412 Pearl St, #2
Oregon City, Oregon 97045

Dear Mr. Hobson:

This is in response to your letter received February 7, 1980.

We are happy to hear of your interest in the Susan B. Anthony dollar.

Please be advised that the size was selected so that the dollar coin could be distinguished from low value foreign coins by automated counting, sorting and vending machines. Also, a Mint survey of world coins indicated that in order to provide a $1 coin that would circulate, the weight would have to be less than nine grams. The new dollar is 43% heavier than the quarter.

Testing of multi-sided coins was conducted by Bell Laboratories and several other discriminator manufacturers, as well as the Bureau of the Mint. This testing showed that a multi-sided coin would require a considerable change in the size of the "accept window" in discriminator devices, and would, therefore, be considerably easier to slug than a round coin.

Mrs. Frank Karney
Star R. 1, Box 182
Pryor, Oklahoma 74361

Dear Mrs. Karney:

This is in response to your letter of February 20, 1980.

Please be advised that the Bureau of the Mint does not place any numismatic value on coins. As to the coins described in your letter, it is difficult to make any kind of determination without examining your coins. Should you wish further examination of your coins, you might send them to the Bureau of the Mint, Technical Staff, Washington, D. C. 20220. However, if any coins submitted to that office are found to be counterfeit, or otherwise in contravention of the law, they will not be returned. Such pieces are delivered to the Director of the U. S. Secret Service, Washington, D. C. 20220 for appropriate action.

It is suggested that you might wish to contact a local coin dealer who might be located through the yellow pages of the telephone directory.

If you prefer to use the services of the American Numismatic Association, P. O. Box 2366, Colorado Springs CO 80901, please refer to the enclosed information.

Our primary function of the Bureau of the Mint is to manufacture sufficient coinage to serve the needs of the Nation. We ship all of our coins to the Federal Reserve Banks, who in turn, distribute them to the local banks.

Other services include: (1) Conducting tours at the Denver Mint which are extremely educational in that the general public learns how coins are actually minted; (2) Responding to both telephone and letter inquiries pertaining to questions regarding coinage processes, coinage processes, coinage history; and, (3) Selling certain coin sets and medals over-the-counter to visitors.

The Denver Mint Sales Room sells the Denver Mint souvenir sets which consist of the half dollar, quarter dollar, dime, nickel, cent and a commemorative medal of the Denver Mint. These sets are sold over-the-counter only at Mint outlets in Denver, Philadelphia, San Francisco and Washington, D. C.

We are also enclosing a brochure with order form on "Medals of the United States Mint". An order form for the John Wayne medal is also included.

If you wish to be placed on the Bureau of the Mint's mailing list for coin sets and special Mint offerings, please complete the enclosed form. You will automatically receive order cards for all future coin sets, and medals offered by the Mint if your name is included on the San Francisco mailing list. We are enclosing information sheets on coins and coin sets.

The enclosed brochure, "How to Make a Penny", which depicts the coinage process, contains some illustrations which you may find helpful. The excerpt from "Facts about United States Money", also relates to coinage operations.

The enclosure, "The Early Days", gives some background of the Denver Mint and other facts which you desired.

Included is "The Mint Story", which gives information about the United States Mints.

The enclosed brochures on the Susan B. Anthony dollar contains facts regarding the coin.

If you ever visit the Denver area, we would be happy to have you visit the Mint. Enclosed is an information sheet regarding our tours.

Mrs. Rose Sutter
625 Eureka Ave
Reno, Nevada 89512

Dear Mrs. Sutter:

In response to your letter of March 1, 1980, please be advised that from your description, it appears to have been a cent that was originally minted here at the Denver Mint, but at a later date, a novelty concern superimposed the head of Mr. Lincoln and an outline of a map of the United States and the Liberty Bell. Some cents also have the picture of the late President Kennedy facing President Lincoln; there are many variations that have been produced. None of the Mints have ever produced such a coin.

As to the color of the cent you described in your letter, please be advised that it is difficult to make any kind of determination without examining your coin. The metallic content of the cent has not been changed; it still contains 95 percent copper and 5 percent zinc. The coin you described probably has been changed by someone outside the mint by plating or a mercury wash.

The Bureau of the Mint does not place a numismatic value on any coin. It is suggested that you may wish to contact a local coin dealer who might be located in the yellow pages of the telephone directory.
